International Senior Lawyers Project Appoints Three New Board Members

NEW YORK, NY, November 18, 2008 – The International Senior Lawyers Project (ISLP), an international organization that enlists the resources of highly experienced lawyers worldwide on a pro bono basis to advance the rule of law, human rights and equitable economic development, is pleased to announce the election of three new members - Boris Dolgonos, Craig Owen White and Karen Wishart - to its Board of Directors.

"Our organization will be substantially strengthened by the addition to our Board of three volunteers who will bring to bear on organizational policy their experience in the field," said Robert Kapp, Co-President of ISLP. Executive Director Jean Berman added that she "is thrilled that Boris, Craig and Karen will be working with us as ISLP expands the reach and depth of its activities around the world."

Boris Dolgonos is a partner in the New York office of Weil, Gotshal & Manges LLP, where his practice focuses on Capital Markets, Initial Public Offerings and Cross Border Financings. Mr. Dolgonos is currently leading a Weil team in an ISLP pro bono project working to help a developing country government in Africa negotiate key natural resource agreements. Mr. Dolgonos received his J.D. from the University of Virginia.

Craig Owen White is a partner with the Cleveland, Ohio-based law firm Hahn & Loeser LLP, where his practice focuses on publicly-traded corporations and high-growth, privately-owned concerns. Mr. White earned his J.D. from the University of Virginia and is a frequent author and speaker on the topics of Corporate Governance and Business Law. For the past two years, Mr. White has volunteered with ISLP's Commercial Law Training Program in South Africa, spending two weeks paired with African lawyers to co-teach various topics in commercial law to local lawyers who have historically been denied the opportunity to participate or grow in this practice area.

Karen Wishart is Senior Vice President, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary for TV One, LLC in Silver Spring, MD. She received an MBA from Emory University's Goizueta Business School in Atlanta and a J.D. from the University of Windsor in Ontario, Canada and is originally from the Toronto area. Ms. Wishart has also twice volunteered in South Africa as co-instructor with the ISLP Commercial Law Training Program.
